Re: Docket # 98N-1038

Please understand that I depend on you for responsibility in protecting my interests and that of the public in which I share. I strongly object to the non-labeling of irradiated food. I urge you to label foods that have been irradiated in large letters, make it a prominent display. Irradiation changes the taste, texture, nutrients and storage capabilities of food. Labeling the food that has been radiated protects the interests of the consumer who needs to know. Please keep the Radura symbol and show with labeling irradiated food or food that has been treated with radiation. I do not accept pasteurization as a synonym for this process as it is entirely different and should not be used in place of the proper terminology.

Thank you for your attention in this matter.
